Minic I wrote what an old man could do but die, I have been asked to tell what a young man could do to live. Now I will tell what a young man is an unknown quantity, the old man we know for his life is all is the past. What I write is from my own experience, of course, others see differently. As I see the boys go through my street coming from school they put me in mind of so many pollywogs in my pond, they go hither and libither without atm or thought, they run here and therefore, they a young man. Then the other and the control of the post of the post of the post of the post me in the post of the p Since I wrote what an old man could do but die, I have been asked to tell what a young man could do to live. Now ne peace of mimi until they are out of alghi. This is the boy, yesterday, today and for all time. Now the young man of today, so different from the young man of my boyhood, seemingly having every-thing that he desirer, as t see him with his little paneake cap and if one of the older hoys, why he wears a swagger coat. How nollke the years ago when the boys of their age wore the transers of their fathers, turned about and turned up with harry, tames and a seal-skin filow happy the boy of today and how happy the boy of other days.

Now it is the boy of today with all his superior advantages that I am to tell what to do. The boy is now in the gram inar school, his studies, arithmetic, resul-ing, spelling and grammar and in this time, if of ordinary ability he will know these studies well. History and blography are of no account, for thistory be can read at any time and geography changes every day. Yesterday the Philip-plines were Spanish and so was Cubs. You can study grography out of oer daily papers. A good knowledge of arithmetic, reading, spelling and grammar is the foundation that the low must build upon. In the orantline the young man-can determine what he will do in the future, will be have a profession, will be have a inisiness life? He cannot make up his mind too early in this matter. (nor, thuntwell studied law when in the grammar school, he says, "before he had even seen a lawyer." He succeeded be-cause he loved what he undertook and this is the main thing in choosing a prof sion. An old friend sald to me, "Edmund you never thit any work." "What," said 1, "never did any work? Who worked harder?" "No," he said, "you always inved what you had to do."

The young man beginning life and wanting a political life, say from the little town school board to a representalive in Congress, had better study law, for never misd what poor tilchard says, ("God works wonders now and then," "Hebob!: a lawyer and an housest man"), The only tiling that is premier than a point who takes his tirst share is the school girl who tirst discovers it.

It is easier for a camel to go through the eye of the needle than for any one to go through the pockets of a rich man.

The only tiling that is premier than a "memoria is lawyer and an neuers man"; it is necessification and its like a lawyer and an neuers man"; it is newest an interest of any other than a lawyer and an neuers man"; it is newest an interest of any other than a lawyer and an neuers man"; it is newest an interest of any other than a lawyer and an neuers man"; it is newest any other than a lawyer and an neuers man"; it is never that an interest man"; it is never that an neuers man"; it is never that an interest man"; it is never that any other than an interest man"; it is never that any other than an interest man"; it is never that any other than a the young men may choose the medica profession. In this profession is a great opportunity for a studious man for there are many degrees, silopathy, homeopathy, Christian Svience and so on, ad infinitum. The Output

THE output is the key-note to profit. In deciding upon a price at which to sell, a manufacturer, no matter what article he has to offer, considers how many he is likely to sell, and bases his charge accordingly. It is quite reasonable, too. If a tailor sells only two suits of clothes each week his income must come from week, his lacome must come from the profit of these two sults. If he care, however, double or trelde his output without insteriolly innis output without insucretary in-creasing his working expenses, he can raintally adord to make the profit on each suit much less. Again, this output devides the onlying power. It is only necessary to state that there have been manufactured and sold over to prove what the buying power of this great Company must be. The small manufacturer who turns out only a few planos each country will certainly have to pay more for the material in each plano—there is also duited about this.

When you consider these facts and put this trait along side of them, that there are only three and in this trait along side of them, that there are only three companies in the United States who have made and sold as many planes as ourselves—that we haven't a compelitor making a bigh-grade plane whose output is as larg, as ours—it needs no argameen to convince you that, quality for quality, you can buy cheaper of us than of any one clae.

If you live in Weymouth, East Weymouth or North In a little cosy valley, Sheltreed from the wintry blast,
'Nrath the old saw mill the river Pours its crystal stream at last. Weymonth, it will pay you to come to South Weymouth if you are in need of a Range or Farnace, and

To this spot I have to trace it,
And, above its rish and roar,
Watch the great place of the forests
Vield to man their valued store.

How the great saws gleam and glisten, Gliding through each massive row— Straightway at the woodman's bidding, Making music as they go. And the woodman—what a pleasure just to see his glowing face! In his life, so close to Nature, What sweet Joys have found a place.

Here he works from early morning 'Tit fond Nature hides her light, Trusting in her guldance ever Ridding toil a kind goodnight.

Faith he goes, with merry whistle, To his little cot of rest; Where sweet faces want the coming Of their ever faithful guest. How their little bright eyes spail!e When his joyous voice is heard! How the wife, his smile inviting, Answeting, breathes a loving word.

Tell me, gentle readet, tell me Where mme happiness is funni — Tell me where in stately castles Greater joys than these abound?

Naught he knows of costly taiment, Naught he knows of msy wine; More to him the crystal waters That his peaceful home entwine.

He has found the precious Heasure Men have sought with fired eyes 'Tis but hearts that beat to Nature Find in life a paradise. GRACH M. WIGHT

The sleeping quarters are in the very bow of the ship, a dark, triaugnlar room, its walls compused entirely of the great riveted plates of iron of which the vessel bullt, and so near the water line that the constant heating of the waves on the ship's quarter tills it with creaking and groaning. The banks are of band-fron woven at right angles like an Indian always secuts easy to a man with a nagbasket, with large enough spaces for Young America's bones to stick through, if a girl could put on her own skates and no sign of bed-clothing, not even he might be able to wear stockings that

Down the great length of he ship, the biggest of any kind which enters Boston harbor, long narrow risles were marked by fron stanchlous so ar anged that, by the use of planks, the esset could be divided into skeleton pens each capable of holding from six to ozen cattle. Ench steer was fastened to the planking with three feet of neck rope, and ale out of a trough which ra dong the floor in front of him. The muck remained in the pens and was re moved at the end of the voyage by a fe tillzer company, and the work of the eattlemen consisted only in providing food and clearing up the remnants of th fattening feast in the alsles afterward The early morning turn meant at leas 200 luckets of water drawn from the overhead water-works system. Sitting on a tale of hay in the darknes f the night, the quiet broken only by the third-third of the englass, the slapping of the waves, and occasional indistinct move ents among the reclining cattle, and ils tening to rare stories from the subforeman old between the puffs of a forbiblen pipe, the romantic side of the adventure began to present itself. There was some thing straugely impressive in those long trips, fantern lo haml, through all the alsles and passageways of the sleeping ship, to the rescue of any steer who in the lying-down process might have slipped a leg through his neck-rope or tangler himself up with his neighbor. Our subforentan was a lean, black-eyed Irishman keen fur work and a man of long experi ence in cattle freighting. He was sald o lisve been a scion of a noble trist house, and to have been receiving $1000 year front rentals of esintes in Ireland ills home was in this country, and the kimiest thing to say of him was that he was a cattleman because he loved itwhich, judging from external evidence was whully true. In the uncertain light of the lantern the hard lines of his face, which might have been caused either by the requirements of stern duty or by tou much devotion to drink, or both, seemed to fade away and take with them that reticence which was his almost constant habit in the daytime. tince upon a time, before college stadenta tuck to this sort of transatinntle travel, the profession of the cattlemn was a highly honorable one and not wholly unremmetative. In those days the trlp to England and return took most nf a month, and for this the urdinary eattleman received $30. Today a modern essel can make the trip each way in ten days. The wages of the subfureman are atill worth while, but the cattleman receiven only $2.50, a mere honormium in tended to pay his first few enringes, and nost college students get nothing at all. The attitude of the professional basses t he college students is not unfriendly The brutality and the ungodliness which are been celebrated in story and song, notably in Mr. Kipling's set of verses, rather the exception than the rule. When the ship arrived at Hirkenhen and docked at nthinight, a proceeding entenlated to entertain the most experienced diventurer, ended the voyage. Stripper from the ship's erew went through the cessel and knocked out all the crosswisplanks of the pens, thus dividing the ship into passageways parnifel with its length. At one of the forward hatches a larger space was cleared, and from this vestibule a runaway was constructed over the | needay and Saturday matinees, the young edge of the ship and down to the wharf. The knots in the neck-rapes were loosened and thed again in such a way that they could be undone with one quick pull. When all was ready, the ropes were can off and the cattle driven, with much shout

A Few Thoughts on Esslern Ster Metters | efforts to have instituted a Chapter by Frank H. Wetson, W. P., No. 48. In visiting among several Chapter

recently, and noticing the very great interest everywhere manifest, in the work of the order, we have sensed a feeling of thankfulness for the existence of the O. E. S. Thankfulaess for an institution which gives woman an opportunity to come to the front, to commit to memory the Ritual of even as men have been doing for so many years, while woman was kept in the lackground, before this glorions auxiliary to the Masonie order was instituted. Women are in all laudable things men's equals or superiors, and no where in any societies conducted wholly by men, can ritualistic work be heard more beautifully rendered, than by the ladies of the EasternStor. Think of the large maiber of splendid, intelligent women whom the O. E. S. has been the means of bringing to the atlention of the public; women who would but for the agency of this order, have remained in the obscurity of their homes, their laten powers andiscovered. But for this astitution for which we are so thankful, we would never have had the pleasure of the uplifting influence of women, whose influence is all for good; women whose acquaintance and friemiship is an incentive to a better life, "And why shouldn't these women of tine lorder be all that is poble and good. Are they not the wives, mothers, sisters and daughters of Master Masona? And are not Masons the thiest men of every community where Lodge, Chapter and Commandery exists? Then as nost wonlen are better than the male contingent of their families, the vomen of the Eastern Star must ceessarily be of a high order. The nove we see of the order, the greater our wonder is, that any good Mason can object to the order or desire otherwise than that the women porion of his family shall become members. Tremont Theatre. De Wolf Hopper will begin the third week of his month's engagement at the Tremont theatre, next Monday, where his new comic opera, "Mr. Pickwick" has caught the public's fancy. "Mr. Pickwick" has enough of historical element to satisfy Diekens' admirers, but not enough to make the work too heavy for the ion-studious amusement lover. The Pickwick characters are all shown, but they come and go amid such a variety of pleasing stage pictures and locidents and such a harmonious lot of solo, ensemble and orchestral music that the auditor who desent know Dickens' "Pickwick" and who has no interest in historical detail, cannot fail to be delighted. In many instances adaptations of liction are lacking in good amusement beeause of the adaptor following too daptor of "Pickwick" and not so with the stage "Pickwick." Mr. Klein stages the characters to numse the general theatre-goer, and his

The article in your edition of De ember 25, entitled "Controller Grou Attacks the Board of Education' merits the consideration of the peopl of New York. It is a question which concerns every father and mother, every tax payer, and every one interested in th welfure of the city.

Controller Grout is entitled to the thanks of the citizens for calling their attention to the conditions whiel exist in the departments which are in charge of the public schools i this city and their course of studies. That the schools have departed from the original intention for whiel they were intended admits of no question. That Is, to give every chibl attending them what is called "a good common school education," Pupils attending the public schools should be unight thoroughly reading writing, spelling, grammar, arithmetic, the history of our country and geography. These branches, well taught, are all that are necessary to earry them through life, unless they intend to study for a profession, in which case the parents should be compelled to educate them. I know am speaking the sentiments of morny parents when I say that they know their children are bring crammed with studies which are not, and neve will be, of any use to them. If they

So ridiculous. Suffering sentences ungrammatical. It is no boy or girl what is called "a highe eillication." That is not what the schools were established for. The parents of these young people should pay for them. If the parents are not able to do so, unhitious youths will find means to get all the cilier tion they may need. They would up precinte its value more if they had twork for it, and in place of Jearning t superfleially, it would be grounded into them and they would never for get it. FOOTBALL AND STRENOUS LIFE. It is a very good plan when one Is ending his paper, coming ocross omething interesting, to cut it out and save it. Now the writer being always interested in the game of footeading. I say I am always interested in this game, perhaps from the danger there is in it; the same way as the writer's Brework business that he has been engaged in so long, for and so many wounded, of whom no dames, dr. He says, "not long ago a coach guthered his squad in the out on to the field against Yale. In quarries. ilence he glured his men successively in the eye and then delivered himself in three hourse words: 'Now fellows -Hell? and with that ringing in their ears his men went out and beat athlete ligures as the danged soul, it Register. is time to inquire into the cause, up, how different, so good. Dr. A. E. Garland, physical director of the Young Men's Christian Association, who played on the famous Springfield Training school team under Stage of Yule, told how the team always prayed before going into a game. Sometimes," said he, "every player pricyed curnestly before going on the field. This takes away the linttering of the heart and the sickness at the pit of the stomach. Amberst came down to show the Christian kids a trick, but the score was 20 to 0 m our fovor. We laid a secret. We depended on a power higher than our own." Now putting these two together, puts me in mind of a story hong time ago in the old Amazon lays, nigh sixty years ago. The Amazon conquary comprised the best of our village. True, there were a few that sometimes could not keep up on the march but they only suphusized the goodness of those whi ould. In fact, this Amazon comouny was of the best men in the vilage. Among them, I remember my ld Sumlay School teacher, Lawyer White, and from his being my Smalny School teacher I always associated him with the time we sning in the Sunday School, "Where do children love to go, When the wintry whids doth blow— It is the Sabbath School, it is the Sabbath School." I have no doubt there were others, the like of Lawyer White, just as good. Now the whole was just as good as a part. As I write this of so many

From the Amazon being a "Thayer tub" the last that was built, and all the other tubs being of the Humamann class, the Amazon was contin-nally challenged. Now the "Tigets" of Quiney, as their name implies were a terror to our good people of the Amazon, for when Ensign Fellows. I think at that time the foreman of the Tigers, got upon his engine there was lively work. This was noted after the thirty years' war in Germany, after the Napoleonic wars in France and more recently directly after the siege of Paris.

> The Army of Panama.-Would Adorn the Comlo Opera Siage. from Mercill A. Teague's Pananca Letter to

The army and navy of the republic of Punning are institutions that be-They have inherent natural lighting qualities, but uremanager, in his strivng after the grolesque, ever produced on that mimir world which lies back of the footlights aggregations better calculated to excite the risibilities of thuse who come from the hannts of northern civilization and progress than are these, which are supposed to uphold by force of arms the dignity of his new nation.

The army of Panama, with one small battalion stationed here, and separate companies distributed in W. Enouv, Rock Mills, Ma. For sale at other centers of population throughout the isthmus, is one of the most remurkable organizations with which any man ever came in contact. Its equal can be found mowhere, unless it s in some other Latin-American re public, und even among these countries would be impossible to match all o lts ladicrons details. Ask at the government building, ml they will tell you that they have 1200 superior men in their army. Go investigating on your own account, and you will discover that this army consists of about 700 officers and men, the number of officers being out of all proportion to the unmber of men. more and more into vogue in our Pursue your investigations a little business enterprises - seems further, and you will be assured by those in authority that if neces sary the republic of Panama could services. If the principle of relie- put from 30,000 to 50,000 men in ment pensions applies to the military the field to resist an invasion or put down an insurrection. Apply yourself to an effort to gauge this opulace, and you will come squarely in contact with the fact that it would tax the resources of the republic to the utmost to arm and equip 1500 men fo active service, and that even this number would have to go into the lield without uniform and with a most v ied assortment of arms.

The long and short of the neatter i that the army of the republic is little nore than is name. The Colombian battalion, for by this name it is still known, which, umler the command o Gen. Huertas, effected the arrest of lens. Tovar and Amaya, and gav sulistautial form to the revolution was, during the old regime, a really effective organization. It was re cruited principally in the province o Cauca, where the men grow to goodly size and where they take naturally the profession of arass. It was well nuiformed, well-equipped and fairly well-drilled. Although it numbere only 200 men, it was able when turn ed out on parade in gandy yellow, blue and gold uniforms, with its multiplicity of generals, colonels and captains each one dazzling in his gold lace and resplendent accontrements, to in part a showy effect to any scene. But ince the birth of the republic of the sthmus it has lost much of its identity. In the harry of setting up the new government, there was a natural cagerness to recruit the strength of the icmy. Little judgment was exercised in calisting men for service, and to day the Panama army looks very much like a high school cadet corns. It is not exaggerating fact in the least to say that in this army there are to be found a larger number of lwys under 15 years of age than there are persons over that age. A visit to the burracks of the Colombian buttalion, or to the quart

THE TERRORS OF WAR.

THE TERRORS OF WAR.

O, thou cruel god of battles,
Russo-lapanescy battles,
Stay thy dreadful fraid this udnute,
Fre the scrapping of the nations
Takes great spaces in the papers,
Filling column after column
With the stories of the unrefting, 10 the sieges and the burning;
Battles on the land and ocean,
Hurse and toot and sadous tighting
Serried Rosts of Romanoffski
Meeting those of Mutsubito,
Full of vodky and of sake,
On the plain of Shiftwoka,
By the Mount of Fusiyanoa,
On the Tehernokolumiski,
Yychlevolotik and Kosmografska,
Teherevokolshatsiki, Huga,
Iga, Setsu and Shikoku;
Kourupatkin with his Cossacks
On the jump for Horoburol;
Samurals of Minamodo
Chassing Alexandroytteles On the jump tor Horoborol;
Samurals of Minamoto
Chassing Alexandrovttches
Shikukhim, ship of shooting, Pauching Petroparvovsk's sides in—
But enought, oh god of battles,
You can see the deadly terror
Of a war between two nations Named as Russia and Japan are.
Let them rip each other open
If you want to—thicks their business,
But, by Hunder, we are peareful
People reading of their battles.
And our jaws should not be broken
Merely seeking rotormation.
Stop the fighting; I lasse some pily
On the innocent and harmless
Otherwise, by Jimmin-Christmas,
When the cruel war is over,
Myridas of broken jawed ones,
Backed by every sense of justice,
Will descend upon each nation,
Russo-Jap, or Japo-Russian,
And demand vast actus to pensions
Now, you blatted old Pulletiodski,
Stop the rew, or pay the rlamage,
See!—New York Sun.

The Output

THE output is the key-note to profit. In decletting upon a price at widch to sell, a manufacturer, no matter what article be has to offer, considers low many he is likely to sell, and bases his charge accordingly. It is quite reasonable, too. If a tailor sells only two sults of clothes each week, his broome must come from any two saits of clothes each week, his income must come from the profil of these two suits. If the can, however, double or fredle his cuttout without meterially in-creasing lds, working expenses. he can naturally afford to make the profit on each suit much less Again, this control decides the taying power. It is only necessary to state that there have been manufactured and sold over to prove what the buying power of this great Company must be The small manufacturer who turns out ody a tew idence each month will certainly have to par more for the material in eact plane - there is absolutely as doubt about this When you consider these facts and put this truth along side of them, that there are only three companies in the United States who have made and sold as many who have made and soid as many plantes as ourselves—that we love of a competitor making a lighterable platter whose ordinals as large as notes—it meets no argument to convince you that quality for quality, you can loy cheaper of us than of any one clae.

Struck by the fact that so few men whom meet in business circles are church nembers, I asked one of our old-timer the other day, how it was in Weymouth fifty years ago. He replied that it was very much the same, and named men who were prominent in those days, physicians. lawyers, business men, etc., most of them havrested in supporting the church slices. It has a membership of over had not members of it. He spoke especially of one who in his day was called a model altizen, but was not a Christian on his own acknowledgement because to was not whic to accept the church creed. When this good man died the pastor a his funeral left him "in the hands of his "Is there anything thod," which was considered a very risky tiding to do, whereat there was a area revidsion of feeling and many expresses the opinion that they would rather take their chances in the next life with the model citizen than with many of the brothers who were given a grand send off with a certificate of good and regula standing in the church. After all it is not so much the creed which keeps people away from church as the general character of the management. Says Dr Manger: "In the long ran the man of thought will worship in the way he thinks, and the more thoughtful he is, the more difficult he finds it to mooperate with the church that denies the roling ideas and accepted facts that he encounters every day and receives as his own. > Call to Business Mon. (R. L., Bridgman in the Christian Register.) "Organize against war" is a watchword which might well be taken up by the business men of the linited States. They have the power in their hamls today. They have con fined their activity in politics to head affairs or to national questions having a commercial or financial respect. But they have today a broader opportunity by far, and, having the opportunity, they have the responsi bility. The proposition may be new to them, but in an era of progress the newness of a proposition proof that it is not sound. If the ousiness organizations of the l'nited States should unite in this endeavor and then should bring their European and Asiatic friends, who are also organized for business, into an anti-war movement, there can be but little doubt that they could seeme the settlement of international disputes by arbitration, leaving the streams of commerce to ran on in their peace. ful course, bringing peace and prosperity in place of the destruction and horrors and disgrace of war, and really securing more equitable adjustment of clashing claims than would he pressible by the arbitrament of force. The Output

THE output is the key-note to profit. In deciding upon a price at which to sell, a manufac-turer, no matter what article he has to offer, considers how many he is likely to sell, and lases charge accordingly. It is aphe is likely to self, and tases charge accordingly. It is a reasonable, too. If a tailor a only two suits of chithes a week, his income must come f the predit of these two suits, he can, however, double or it like intiput without materially creasing tile, working cases creasing ids working expenhe can naturally afford to the profit on each suit much los Again, this output decides ti buying jower. It is only nece sury to state that there have bee manufactured and sold over

month will certainly make to pay more for the material in each plano—there is absolutely no donist about this. When you consider these facts and put this truth along side of them, that there are only three companies in the United States who have made and sold as many who have made and sold as rou who have made and som as many planes as ourselves—that we haven't a competitor notking a high-grade plane whose output is as large as ones—it needs to argument to conviace you that, quality for quality, you can buy cleaper of as than of any one cleaper.
